

This map displays the 435 Congressional Districts of the United States. The districts are color-coded: red, white, and gray. The red districts are the majority, covering most of the West, the Great Plains, the South, and parts of the Northeast. The white districts are primarily located in the central and eastern parts of the country, including Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama, Georgia, South Carolina, North Carolina, Virginia, West Virginia, Kentucky, Tennessee, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa, Missouri, Kansas, Nebraska, and South Dakota. The gray districts are found in the Northwest, including Washington, Oregon, California, Nevada, Arizona, New Mexico, Colorado, Utah, Idaho, Montana, Wyoming, and North Dakota. The map also shows the outlines of the states and the District of Columbia.
